A DEMAND FOR PROTECTION.

For three years the people of Minnesota have impatiently endured the presence upon their borders, of a savage and murderous enemy—not large in numbers, it is true, but formidable in the villainous craft of robbery and murder—who have constantly sought and improved every opportunity to murder helpless women and children, to devastate the homes of our western settlers, and to burn and destroy whatever property they could not pillage. By these annually recurring visitations of hostile Sioux upon our frontier, not only many innocent lives have been ruthlessly sacrificed, and vast amounts of property, the accumulations of honest toil destroyed, but large settlements have been broken up, immense areas of country have been laid waste, and the westward development of the State and of the territory beyond, has been violently arrested. To millions of dollars actually destroyed, must be added many millions more lost by this retardation of the growth of the State.

While nearly all the military resources of the Government were employed in putting down the vast rebellion in the South the people of Minnesota have sustained themselves, if not to be satisfied with, at least to endure, the partial and inadequate efforts made by the Government to defend them against these cruel and vindictive foes. They have been willing to postpone their own local security to the larger necessity of defending and saving the nation. This great duty is now accomplished. The Government has 500,000 idle bayonets at its back, and the people of Minnesota now demand protection. They call upon the Government to discharge the long delayed duty, now that there is no longer any excuse for delaying it, of enforcing the securities of life and property upon their exposed frontier, and of executing condign justice upon the landed assassins of their wives and children. They demand the immediate and complete extermination of the hostile bands of Sioux, and to that end they ask that a sufficient military force be at once sent into the infested country to wipe these red-skinned murderers and robbers from the face of the earth. Ten or twenty thousand men immediately upon the frontier, under an energetic commander to crush the remnants of the hostile Sioux would probably save the Government millions of dollars in providing for the future defense of the frontier—and in long, slow, feeble, ineffective hostilities continued year after year with no other result than to increase the number of its Indian foes.

TEXAS BEING CONQUERED.

It is not generally known that Secretary Stanton and General Grant immediately upon Lee's surrender took ample measures to crush out the last remains of the rebellion, in the only locality where any vitality is now left to it, west of the Mississippi, and that orders were promptly issued that time to concentrate a large force in Texas and annihilate the army of Kirby Smith in that quarter. The 4th army corps has been ordered from East Tennessee to Texas, and the whole of Gen. Thomas' army in Tennessee will follow. One army corps from Virginia has been sent to the same direction.

The recent movement of troops from the Western States to the front was probably intended for this same destination. Canby will probably add a corps to this army, and an overwhelming force will then be arrayed against the feeble remnant of the rebel power which still survives in Texas. It is supposed that the immediate recapture of Galveston will be the first object in view, and after that the reposition of other ports and posts along the Texas coast.

This demonstration of force will probably accelerate the reported disposition of the rebels in that quarter to imitate the example of Lee and Johnston and surrender. Overtures have already been sent to Pope from the rebel General in Arkansas for that object, and when the moral effect of recent disasters in Virginia and North Carolina is backed up by a menace of invasion, they will probably give up the game. Kirby Smith's whole force does not number more than 35,000 men, a force too small to afford any hope of maintaining a contest against the vast armies of the United States.

If Jeff. Davis relies upon the Texas military organization for the means of continuing the contest, he is destined to a reverse disappointment, for the Texans have grown too rich and comfortable out of the war to allow their property to be disturbed and their property devastated to satisfy the insane passions of this fugitive assassin and murderer. They will be more likely to avail themselves of the price which has been set upon his head by the Government, to effect the double object of getting rid of an unwelcome visitor, and of making money out of the transaction.

BENNETT'S DECLARATION OF THE FRENCH MISSION.

The point of the article in yesterday's Press on the French Mission and James Gordon Bennett was much obscured by a typographical blunder which credited it to the New York Herald. It is the New York Herald which dignified the article with the title of "The French Mission," and under the aromatic pressure of languidly curious counts and dukes, blushing pleas guilty to the soft impeachment that he had refused the French mission tendered to him by Mr. Lincoln—being moved by that act of virtuous self-abnegation by patriotic motives. The retreating Bennett, it must be admitted, never served his country better than when he declined to misrepresent it at the imperial court.

VOLUME V. SAINT PAUL, SUNDAY, MAY 7, 1865. NUMBER 104.

THE TRUE STATE OF DEFENSES.

We insert Mr. Montgomery's letter on our frontier defenses—but his statements don't tally with those of Gen. Sibley upon the same question—and we are inclined to believe that the General is the better authority. In one thing Montgomery is right. We want more troops—not, however, to be cooped up in frontier garrisons for defensive purposes—but to pursue—to smite and to destroy the enemy. The only way to defend the frontier is to hunt the Indians to their holes and to kill them there; to strike at their homes—not to wait till they attack ours.

THE FRONTIER DEFENSE.

Indians in the Settlements.

Six Persons Killed.

Editor St. Paul Press:

What I conceive to be duty again prompts me to address you. In my note to you last month I took the position that the present system of frontier defense was not adequate to the danger and interests involved. It was, then, based upon the experience of the past, now, it is a fact illustrated in colors of blood. At about nine o'clock last evening Private Joseph F. Beard, of C Company, Second Minnesota Cavalry, came in and reported undoubted signs of Indians. He had been out acting as a scout and guide, and it had been pre-arranged that he should meet, near the southern end of Lake Herson, a squad of soldiers, who were to build a stockade there. He went there at the appointed time, and no soldiers were there; neither could he discover any traces of soldiers having been there lately. It grew very late; the sun was fast going down behind the hills, and still no soldiers come; his horse became restive, and acted as if there was danger near. Mr. Beard, not having had anything to eat since early in the morning, and not liking the appearance which things were assuming, struck out for Belmont and Jackson, reaching the latter place late in the night. Some little time after he had been there, a boy came in and said that there was a very bad and hungry; that he played under an energetic commander to crush the remnants of the hostile Sioux would probably save the Government millions of dollars in providing for the future defense of the frontier—and in long, slow, feeble, ineffective hostilities continued year after year with no other result than to increase the number of its Indian foes.

NEWS OF THE ASSASSINATION AT CHARLESTON.

Speech of Governor Aiken.

Newspaper reports of a week ago said: A deep and profound sensation is reported to have been caused by the appearance within six miles of Charleston, and took up some railroad track. The principal citizens and leading officials of Charleston are coming forward to the Provost Marshal's office and taking the oath of allegiance to the government. The following is Gov. Aiken's speech: FELLOW CITIZENS: We are assembled to pour out the general grief which has been felt in this city for the sudden removal from this life of Abraham Lincoln, late President of the United States. The horrible and senseless murder of President Lincoln has filled every feeling heart with sorrow and indignation. I did not know, personally, the late President, but these few words have spoken of him in the kindest manner to me his heart was benevolent and forgiving, and we are glad, and have cause to be glad, that through him our difficulties would have been adjusted and peace once more restored to our distracted country. Our expressions of disapproval for the destruction of the Northern masses. It was shown that several persons connected with the agency of the Confederate States were cognizant of these facts.

Overview of the Mississippi-Rebel Rains at Memphis.

New Orleans dates of the 29th ult., say the river is still raising rapidly, and the overflow is already very great, causing an immense amount of suffering and loss in the adjoining plantations. The country on the east side inundated for many miles. Many of the inhabitants are in a state of destitution, and are suffering from a more destructive flood than ever before occurred. A daily line of Steamers, and other vessels, are being sent to New Orleans. Two rebel yachts, and five steamers are known to be at Memphis, Alabama. There are but few rebel troops there, and they are greatly demoralized.

Copperhead Journalists to be Arrested.

The Tribune's Washington special says: The President has been strongly urged by prominent gentlemen here to subject, to arrest and treat such men as "Chicago" Tompkins of the LaCrosse Wisconsin Democrat, and the Editors of the "Brick Times," who, during the past year, have publicly advised and incited the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. The subject is receiving serious consideration.

A Homecoming for Mrs. Lincoln.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6. The subscriptions to present a homecoming to Mrs. Lincoln are not to exceed five dollars each, so that all may have a chance to contribute. The statement that they were to be five hundred dollars each as mentioned in a previous dispatch was incorrect. The subscription to the 7-30 loan yesterday by the First National Bank New York, was one million dollars, not one hundred thousand.

Guerrillas Unmanned to Surrender.

Gen. Meredith commanding western Kentucky, has summoned all bands of armed men in hostility to the Government within his district, to surrender previous to the 20th of May, on the terms announced to Lee, under penalty of being treated as outlaws.

FROM RICHMOND.

The Times' Richmond correspondent says: The notorious chief of the rebel detective squad, Sam. McCubbin, has surrendered himself. McCubbin left Richmond on Sunday, April 24, in charge of the treasure which the rebel Secretary, Trevelyan, had reserved for any emergency that might arise. He left Jefferson Davis, Trevelyan, Benjamin, Extra Billy Smith, and a host of other leading confederates, in the city. They ate, drank and slept on the cars, as the inhabitants refused to allow them to enter their dwellings, fearing they might be built responsible for being rebels. Mr. Trevelyan was very sick at Greensboro, and visited the house of one of the leading rebels, Richmond, to exchange gold for Confederate currency. The Secretary refused on the plea that North Carolina had not furnished any of it, and that the citizens of this section of the State said in making up a list to forward a note.

The World's Charleston correspondent says: [somebody's] forces had yesterday afternoon returned from their expedition to the interior of the State, and destroyed immense quantities of stores. VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

By direction of the Hon. Secretary of the Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of one or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming land in Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust Lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty entered into with the Winnebago Indians, approved February 2nd, 1855, entitled "An Act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre. In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon as payment for the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians, issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City, D. C., and endorsed "Bids for Winnebago Trust Land."

As heretofore many persons have been bid up on these lands, and after the award has been made to them have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids heretofore submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of an amount equal to ten per cent. on the amount of each bid, which, in case the land awarded and the balance not paid, will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected, the sum deposited will be returned to the successful bidder.

MILITARY TRIBUNALS.
It has been announced as the decision of the Administration, at a recent Cabinet meeting, to try the criminals connected with the recent assassination of President Lincoln, by court-martial instead of by the civil tribunals. This, we are told, is not a matter of course, but a general acquiescence, on the part of the Eastern Press, in the propriety of this mode of procedure.

In our view, this determination of the Government is greatly to be deplored, for many reasons, and first of all, because it will require all the caution of the Government lawyers to convince the American people that it is not an improper assumption of powers.

Military tribunals for the trial of offenses against the civil law are an anomaly in this country, and are an anomaly in the history of the world. They are an incident of the war power, in the presence of immediate, pressing and extreme public danger, when the salus populi is the supreme law, and the Executive, in assuming extra-legal powers, is still answerable to the civil tribunals and to the common judgment of the country for the assumption, and for the exercise of these extraordinary functions.

The arbitrary arrests and summary processes of military authority were acquiesced in by the loyal people of these States, during the dark days of the rebellion, from a conviction that they were necessary to the public safety.

But now that no organized army any longer menaces the authority of the civil law, and that the rebellion is utterly annihilated, no such supreme necessity can be alleged for proceedings which, however well intended, are subversive of the sacred majesty of the civil law, and furnish precedents which the ambition of future demagogues may abuse to the destruction of the public liberties.

The war has been waged to establish the supremacy of the Constitution and the civil law, and the glorious triumph of our arms will have been fruitless indeed, if they shall not have secured to us the restoration of that supremacy in all its original completeness. Before the Government proposes oaths of allegiance to the disarmed rebels, let it manifest its own abhorrence of military dictatorship, and by yielding a blind obedience to the civil law. And we do not quite see what is to be gained to public justice, even in immediate effectiveness, by the substitution of military for civil tribunals in the trial and punishment of the conspirators connected with the assassination of the late President. For, in the first place, by the necessary implication of that procedure, it strips their horrible crime of its most revolting features to place it in the low category of a mere offense against military law. The hands of these assassins were raised against the majesty of the civil law, and by the civil law they should be tried and punished.

To turn the criminals over to a military court to declare to all the world either that the civil law was not violated in the assassination of the President or that it is not strong enough or just enough to punish the offense.

Such a declaration, expressed or implied, is a lie upon the American courts and the American people. By military process the trial may be more speedy, and the punishment more sure; but nothing can so detract from the terrible impressiveness of the lesson it is meant to teach to evil-doers, as the humiliating confession implied in the anomalous forms of trial, borrowed from a court-martial, to the Constitution, that the civil authority is incompetent to its own vindication.

SECRETARY STANTON'S RIGHT TO SEIZE THE GUNNEY PHOTOGRAPHS.
S. P. Press, May 10, 1865.
In your comments in this morning's paper, on the destruction of the photograph of President Lincoln, ordered by Secretary Stanton, you appear to have overlooked the special order of the War Department of April 18, 1865.

The order provides that the railroad, locomotive, cars, &c., engaged in the transportation of the President's remains shall be subject to the military control of Brigadier General McCullum, and all persons are required to conform to the rules, regulations, orders and directions he may give, and all persons disobeying said orders shall be deemed to have violated the military orders of the War Department, and shall be dealt with accordingly.

The order provides that at the points where the remains are taken they shall continue always under the special charge of the officers and escort assigned by this Department.

There can be no question, I think, under this order, concerning the authority of the Secretary of War to prohibit the taking of the photograph, or to seize it before Mr. Gurney removed it beyond the lines of the guard around the remains.

Nor can there be any doubt about the right to seize it after it had passed beyond the lines of the guard.

The military authorities had the right to pursue it and seize it wherever it could be found.

I agree with you that it would perhaps have been better to have used different means to effect the object, but Secretary Stanton certainly adopted the shortest and surest method.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.
SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared to ripe old Bourbon. Being now used to the exclusion of all other Bitters in more than fifty United States Army Hospitals, and millions of private families, and is the only popular medicine which has been essentially successful in curing every

the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard REMEDY by the medical profession.

as they are made of ingredients well known and approved by the medical profession, as having powerful tonic properties, are both palatable and pleasant, with sufficient strengthening properties to correct the illiacud demand of the system, and act like a charm when taken according to direction, as a remedy for the following diseases:— Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Affections, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirit, Sallow Complexion.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.

FOR

Headache, Costiveness, and kindred diseases,

As an example, I will mention a case of a man who has been suffering from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels. Let every one try these agreeable Bitters; once tried and used, they will recommend them with confidence to all others who are in need of a wholesome, agreeable, and effectual tonic. The rapidly increasing demand for these Bitters, has induced me to give them publicity, so that thousands who have not used them, may try them and be convinced of their efficacy.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS. SW- Ladies, who have tried and found most other "Stomach Bitters" too bitter, angustial and too highly medicated for their delicate taste, please give these a trial, and you will not be without them. They will give tone to the stomach, and strength to the whole system. SW- If your druggist or tradesman has not got these Bitters, have him send for them. SW- Remember the name, and take no other.

SWAIN'S BOURBON BITTERS.
The composition of Dr. Swain's Bitters, having been made public through the columns of Medical Journals, and having been accepted as a standard remedy by the Medical Profession, are by the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, EXEMPT FROM STAMP DUTY.

Gallant Exploit.

From the Boston Journal.

A little over a year ago we noticed the fact that Chas. P. Philbrick, Jr., of Boston, was in the employ of the Metropolitan Railroad Company, a private in the 3d Massachusetts Cavalry,

and set out on an independent career

from Hudson and captured a rebel Colonel named Bradford and his servant and brought them prisoners into our lines,

much to the chagrin of the Confederates,

who had delivered up their arms to Phil-

brick and ridden into camp on their own horses in the belief that Philbrick's orders to an imaginary squad of men were not such as he had been told. We have another gallant achievement of Philbrick's to record, the particulars of which we are to usured by the best authority.

On the 22d of March, 1865, while out on a scout about twelve miles from Winchester, Virginia, the vicinity of Cedar Creek, Philbrick was suddenly confronted by four rebels who demanded his surrender. As he had never any knowledge in any way of them, and he has never written a note, or sought any interview with us.
